OLSEN IS DISAPPOINTED. Expected to Hear His Parents' Voices but Records Were Broken.

Olaf B. Olsen an employe of the Bismark saloon, met with a disappointment yesterday afternoon. Olsen's parents, who live in Norway, had written him, saying that they had sent him two phonographic cylinders containing messages from them. Olsen has not messages from them. Ossen has not seen his parents for twenty years and the apticipation of hearing their voices again were exciting and he looked eazerly for the records. They came yesterday, but on examination it was apply that they were broken. found that they were broken and could

AN EXCITING RUNAWAY. Miss Alice Folsom Has a Wild Ride-Stopped by Dr. Plummer.

A good exhibition of nerve and common sense was made yesterday afternoon by Miss Alice Folsom. The opportunity came to her in the way of a runaway in which she figured most conspicuously. Miss Folsom had obtained a team and a rubber tired buggy from a State street livery stable and was driving south, when on reaching Fifth south the animals became very much frightened at something. They veered to the left and dashed along Fifth South at a terrible pace. Miss Folsom instead of screaming or jeopardizing her life by jumping from the buggy, concouled to use the only chance that oftened all of her energies towards leng the flying steeds in the middle When Fifth West street Breached the horses turned north, as a freight train blocked the way on Pith South. Miss Folsom remained cool and kept the animals in the middle of the road. They continued their running, but they were showing visible sims of weakening. They were wast-ing all of their energy and running to purpose. The young lady had turned the tables on them, and heat them at their own game. When they reached brush! & Franken's drug store Dr. Plummer jumped into the street and wited them by the bits and brought Miss Folsom was then assisted out of the buggy and into the drug store. The exciting ride had been a hard test to ber nerves, but she was soon composed. She was taken to her home in a hack.

FOUGHT FIVE OFFICERS. Young D. O. Calder Made it Lively

for That Many Peace Preservers. It required the combined strength of four stalwart policemen and Detective Sheets besides, to land a fighting drunk in the patrol wagon about 8 o'clock last evening. The individual who put up such a vigorous fight is only 18 years of age and he gave his name as Sam Clark. Young Calder and a friend were under the influence of liquor and were staggering up East Temple street when Officer Barlow saw them and informed them that they were under arrest. Young Calder couldn't see it that way, however, and immediately closed with the bluecoat. Calder tried to strike ment. In the mean time the other fellow had made good his escape. Barlow certainly had his hands full. and eye witnesses say that Calder almost threw the policeman through the window of Smith's drug store. In a few minutes Officers Hilton and Simpson arrived on the scene and took a hand in the melee. They managed to drag the enraged youth into the street to the police box and the wagon was sent for. Then Calder became more unruly than ever and with a string of oaths declared that he would not ride in the wagon and that there were not enough policemen in the town to put him into it. He suddenly made a break for liberty, and with three officers hanging on him dragged them to the edge of the sidewalk. In a few minutes the patrol arrived and then the real fight began.

Two of the officers seized him by the wrists and the other got hold of his legs, but it was only for a moment. His feet shot out like broken piston rods on a locomotive. He managed to get his hands free and seized hold of the brass rods on the wagon. Hilton pounded his knuckles with his club, but he paid no attention to the blows and doggedly refused to let go. After about five minutes struggle they dragged his head up over the brass railing and Barlow sat on it. But the youth got free again and the crowd roared with delight. The officers could easily have knocked him out but they were not disposed to be more rough than absolutely necessary. The more they dragged and pulled the stronger the youth became and the louder the

Finally Detective Sheets and Officer Jim Williams in citizens' clothing made their way through the throng and in less time than it takes to tell it the young man, whose true name is David.
O. Calder, was doing a sleigh ride on his nose into the hurry up.

At the police station he became more quiet, and gave his name as Sam Clark. He was locked up on the charge of drunk and resisting an officer. About midnight his parents called at the station and Calder was allowed to go home with them.

ENSIGN GIVEN RECEPTION.

Tabernacle Choir Give Testimonial of Regard to Their Assistant Director.

A very flattering reception was tendered Horace S. Ensign last evening by the Tabernacle choir at the conclusion of its regular rehearsal. Mr. Ensign is the assistant leader of the choir, and is very popular with the singers, who decided to give him a testimonial of their esteem before he departed for Japan next month with Apostle Heber J. Grant and others. The reception con-sisted principally of music, but the chief feature was the presentation of a purse liberally filled with cash, from the choir to Mr. Ensign. The choir sang "The Soldiers' Chorus," from "Faust," and the Hallelujah chorus. Miss Judith Anderson sang "Spirits So Fair," and in response to a warm en-core sang the "Miserere," from "Il Trovatore," Prof. Stephens sang a Troyatore." Prof. Stephens sang a piece of his own composition, and Mr. Ensign rendered, "A Soldier's Dream," election and another very pleasing selection. When the purse was presented to him he responded in a feeling manner. He referred with fervor to his connection with the choir and the high regard he had for every member. As to his mission in Japan, he expressed the conviction that it would be a source of profit and of pleasure to him. annum wommenne

THE TROUBLES AT THE WEST POINT MILITARY ACADEMY.

With the sentencing of several cadets, selected from among the 83 arrested for training a cannon on the house of Superintendent Mills, it is expected that the troubles at West Point will be either ended or reach a climax. The cadets are very bitter against Colonel Mills and other officers of the academy. It is said that the students have formed a large secret organization whose members have sworn to "get even" with the officials.

FIERCE CONTEST IS LOOKED FOR

Rival Teams Will Meet at the League Tomorrow.

SALT LAKES VS LOBSTERS.

Both Aggregations Have Practiced Hard for the Game-Izzy Will Pitch for the Visitors.

The eyes of the baseball enthusiasts of Salt Lake and Ogden are focused on tomorrow's game between the Sait Lakes and Lobsters. Both aggregations have been making extra efforts in preparing for tomorrow's battle and it is sure to be hotly contested. The defeat of Gimlin's crowd by the Railways last Saturday and the Parkites on Sunday, has caused them to realize that they have not a monopoly on baseball Capt. Dud Risley's boys have been working like beavers this week and have improved wonderfully. They feel confident of winning and their admirers are backing them with coin in abundance. Following will be the line-up of the visiting team: Hansford, pitch; Hausen, catch; Casey, second base; Clark, first base,

The line-up of the Salt Lakes will be Risley P. Barr 2 B. Morrow L. F., Mc-

'ausland 1 B., Webster S. S., Hale R. F. Williams 3 B., McQuald Center, N. Margetts C. Hawley, sub.

This will be the first game in which Risley is slated to pitch this season. 'Uncle Dud' fooled the Lobsters pleny last season and he expects to do es tomorrow.
